CONGRESS WILL PASS
ONLY SUPPLY BILLS

Democratic Leaders Admit
There's No Chance for Rivers and Harbors

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24.—Democratic senate leaders conceded tonight there was little hope of the passage of any legislation except the big supply measures before the adjournment of congress a week from tomorrow, and there was no prospect of passing the rivers and harbors bill in its present form.

For the rivers and harbors bill, it was generally expected, would be substituted a joint resolution appropriating $40,000,000 to continue existing projects.

As to the government ship purchase bill, there were rumors of a spirited revival of the effort to pass. These followed a conference between President Wilson and Senators Fletcher and Zimmerman. Senator Zimmerman said later that no report would be made in the senate before next Monday.

Prospects for the conservation legislation were declared to be out of the question. As for the Philippine enlarged self-government measure, it was understood there might be some chance of its passage if it could be done within a few hours' time, which was gravely doubted.

The senate today passed the post-office appropriation bill virtually as it passed the house, carrying a total of approximately $23,900,000.

A recommendation of the senate committee to eliminate the house provision fixing the salary of rural mail carriers on standard routes at $1,200 a year was overruled, $2 to 10, adding $2,000 to the bill, as reported from the committee. All attempts to add new legislation were stricken out on points of order.

The agricultural bill was taken up tonight.

Increases in the house diplomatic and consular bill recommended by the senate committee include the addition of $60,000 to pay the expenses of the forthcoming conference of South and Central American financial officials with those of the United States. Provision is made for the $10,000 appropriation for the international medical conference to be held in San Francisco, and the appropriation of $25,000 for the City of Panama exposition is increased $5,000. The senate committee also inserted a provision authorizing the president to take necessary steps to obtain from the Cuban government reimbursement of $8,500,000 expended for the army of pacification in 1907-1909.

Until a late hour tonight the senate kept at work, almost completing consideration of the agricultural bill, carrying approximately $28,000,000. Several disputed items went over for discussion tomorrow, including an appropriation of $400,000 for the distribution of seed, eliminated by the senate committee.

British officials are said to be firmly convinced that the neutral powers will offer little objection if food supplies are cut from Germany in retaliation for the German submarine activities which they allege is a violation of all international history.

A prominent British official mentioned today the position taken by Count Caprivi, given German imperial chancellor, who declared:

"A country may be dependent for her food or for her raw products upon her trade. In fact, it may be absolutely necessary to destroy the enemy's trade."

The private introduction of provisions into Paris was prohibited during the siege and in the same way a nation would be justified in preventing the import of food and raw products."

BRITAIN WON'T TALK OF FEEDING GERMANY

Says Food Is Not Absolute
Contraband—But Hints
It Will Be Soon

LONDON, Feb. 24.—The foreign office is extremely reticent in discussing the American proposal made to London and Berlin outlining a plan for the feeding of the civil population of Germany under certain regulations.

Sir Edward Grey, the British foreign secretary, and other members of the cabinet still lay emphasis on the fact that Great Britain has not yet made food destined for Germany absolute contraband.

While Sir Edward Grey's reply to the United States government's note concerning the food steamer Willard Heinemann intimated that such a step probably would be necessary, the absolute prohibition of food shipments to Germany has not actually been announced.

In fact, the decision of the Willard Heinemann case by the prize court in Berlin looked forward to it, it is considered that this will amount to a definite statement of the British position.

For several days it has been intimated in official circles that the foreign office might issue a memorandum setting forth definitely the British policy concerning foodstuffs for Germany and outlining plans for the reparations deemed necessary because of the operations of the German submarines. It is known that part of the material for such a memorandum has been considered and that the issuance of the statement within two or three days is not improbable.

HAVANA MAY GET WILLARD
JOHNSON FIGHT IN APRIL

HAVANA, Feb. 25.—It is stated here that there is a strong probability that a fight for the world's heavyweight pugilistic championship between Jack Johnson and Jess Willard will be arranged to take place in Havana early in April.

Johnson having made all possible efforts to reach Juarez in time for the proposed fight there March 6, decided to remain in Havana. He expressed confidence today that Willard would consent to come here for the fight.

Johnson appeared tonight in an exhibition bout with his sparring partner and a big crowd witnessed the bout. In a preliminary bout John Lester Johnson of New York defeated Dave Mill of New Orleans.

Recruiting Demoralizes Industries of Holland

THE HAGUE, Feb. 24, via London, Feb. 25 (Thursday).—The Netherlands government is watching closely the outcome of the exchange of notes between Germany and the United States regarding Germany's proclamation of a sea war zone. The government still is awaiting an answer to its own protest to Germany.

Despite the movement in certain quarters in Holland in favor of demobilization because industries are being relocated by the men being with the colors, the government is considering calling to the colors the recruits who are due in 1916, as well as further classes of the landsturm. At the same time the number of volunteers is increasing steadily.

Extreme activity is being displayed by the mills on all sides, especially along the western and eastern borders of the kingdom.

Food prices are rising steadily and the number of unemployed is growing rapidly.

SOCIALISTS ON STRIKE FOR LOW-PRICED BREAD

LONDON, Feb. 24.—A general strike was proclaimed today by the Socialists in order to obtain a reduction in the price of bread from 10 cents to 7 cents per kilo, or 220 pounds. More than 1,000 of the strikers paraded through the streets of the city and then proceeded to the city hall to register their claims. Large forces of troops and police were called out to prevent disorders.

CRIPPLE CREEK, Colo., Feb. 24.—Five miners and three engineers are in jail today on charges of high grading. Subsequently Frank Corrigan, George Hines of Victor and Thomas Monihan of Goldfield, miners, were taken into custody.

PROHIBITION MEASURE

Hope to Agree on Drug Store
Clause; Single Tax Bill
Killed by Senate

DENVER, Feb. 24.—The administration prohibition bill, originally introduced in the house by a conference committee composed of Senators Tracy and Clegg and Representatives Krause, Salmon and Ardenne. The committee was named late today after the house had unanimously passed the measure on third reading. In passing it on the second reading, the house amended the bill to prohibit the sale of liquor by drug stores or any other agency by individuals. The senate has declined to ratify the house amendments and the house has declined to rescind its action. The hope is expressed, however, by members of both branches of the assembly that the conference committee will effect a solution of the question.

The senate today made the industrial relations bill a special order of business for 8 o'clock p.m. each day, beginning tomorrow. The senate also killed the Tierney single tax measure.

Republican members of the house in caucus today, agreed to support the industrial relations commission bill as reported from the committee.

EXPLAINS PURCHASE OF 2
SUBMARINES FOR DOMINION

Protected Vancouver From Germans,
Says British Columbian Premier;
No Commission Received

VICTORIA, B. C., Feb. 24.—Sir Richard McBride, premier of British Columbia, made today in parliament a promised statement regarding the purchase of two submarines for the Dominion government just prior to the war. The premier denied that anyone, as had been charged, received any commission from the transaction. Sir Richard asserted that, if these craft had not been obtained, both Vancouver and Victoria would have been subjected to a bombardment by German ships.

Just prior to the declaration of war by Great Britain he had acted on Captain Logan's advice and opened negotiations for the purchase. The price paid by the vendors was $1,150,000. A check for this amount payable to the premier was handed by Lieutenant Pilcher to the vendors when the transaction had been completed on the high seas.

Sir Richard added that his political opponents had employed detectives in Seattle after the purchase of the submarines to find material whereby to blacken his political character.

He said it was untrue the submarines had been rejected by the Chilean government as ineffective.

It is declared in a reliable quarter that Prince von Buelow, the German ambassador to Italy, has summarized the Italian situation to his government substantially as follows:

"Italy has spent nearly two billion lire ($400,000,000) in war preparations since the outbreak of hostilities; consequently action on her part is daily becoming more imperative. Furthermore, for international reasons, all political parties are asking the government to obtain, as a result of diplomatic negotiation or through the use of the Italian army and navy, the fulfillment of the aspirations of the nation, particularly in return for the heavy sacrifices already made."

"Germany urged Austria-Hungary strongly to cede to Italy her province of Trent and a portion of the Istria peninsula with the idea of keeping Italy neutral at the present time and enlisted her favor for the future."

It has been asserted in Rome that Prince von Buelow has said Austria must be induced to accede to his views concerning territorial concessions to Italy else he would resign his post.

Governor Ferguson gave as his reason the increase of numerous thefts of livestock and personal property along the border. It was understood here he will call attention of the federal government to the situation and might also seek federal appropriation.

It was said $30,000 goes alone had been stolen along the border within the past few months.

Judge Dayton Answers Mrs and New Charges

WASHINGTON Feb 24—Hearings on impeachment charges against Federal Judge Dayton of West Virginia practically were concluded today by the house judiciary subcommittee.

After the committee meets Friday afternoon to hear Frank Burke, a secret service man, an effort will be made to formulate a report promptly in the hope that the matter may be disposed of before congress adjourns March 4.

Judge Dayton himself resumed the stand before today's session was concluded and made a brief supplemental statement denying and explaining charges since he testified yesterday. He replied in detail to several charges that he had used unseemly language in delivering opinions or instructing juries in his court.

Pestus Newman, an old Hegre told the committee that for the years he was employed by Judge Dayton as a gardener and general office servant. He said he received at check for $400 from the government every month and divided it with his wife who was the judge's cook. Judge Dayton explained that he took Pestus as he called him served as messenger allowed him to serve the government.

The women took the confiscation good-naturedly, the milliners being the only ones to grieve.

THE ANNEXATION QUESTION

THE action of the majority of the city council of Colorado City, advised by their attorney, in preventing, or threatening to prevent, the submission of the annexation question at the April election, is a piece of petty business for which it would be hard to find a parallel. The Colorado City council consists of three members. Mayor Faulkner, Mrs. Ammerman and Charles B. Myles. The city attorney is J. P. Jackson. Mr. Myles' term expires this spring; the other two members of the council and the city attorney hold over.

And the holdovers intend to hold on, if possible, even if it is necessary to resort to a legal quibble to deprive the people of a chance to vote on a question concerning which there is no doubt as to the state of their feelings. It is a perfectly safe assertion that a very large majority of the people of Colorado City, and especially the taxpayers, want their town annexed to Colorado Springs. At any rate, the desire to have the question settled in the coming election is virtually unanimous. But if the election is held and annexation carries, Colorado City will become a part of Colorado Springs a month later, and its municipal officials will be jobless.

That's the hornet that is buzzing in the hats of the two estimable councilmen and the city attorney. Faulkner receives $110 for his able services; Mrs. Ammerman gets $100 a month to discharge the varied duties and responsibilities of her post, while Jackson receives $25 every thirty days for throwing legal light on vexed questions. Hence, they all think it would be a grave mistake to allow their town to be annexed, and thereby deprived of the privilege of paying their salaries.

The annexation proceedings have been carried on under the provisions of a statute which requires that the joint committee, representing the two towns, shall report its findings to the council of each town. The law requires that if the council then approves of the terms and conditions proposed they shall, by proper ordinance, declare; and thereupon the council of trustees of each of such cities or towns, by ordinance passed at least one month prior to the general annual election therein, may submit the question of such annexation upon the said terms and conditions so proposed, to the electors of their respective cities or towns.

The Colorado City council, at its bi-weekly meeting the fifteenth instant, approved of the proposed terms, but failed to follow this action by passing the second ordinance required, that is, the one submitting the question in the election. The reason given for this refusal is a point in their city charter which, in the opinion of lawyers generally, has no bearing on the case.

At any rate, it is the business of the Colorado City officials to follow the form prescribed by the statute and submit the question at the next election. If they do this at their meeting next Monday night there will still be time for it to go on the ballot, otherwise it will be too late.

There is no doubt of the desire of the people of both cities to vote on the matter, and it would be nothing less than an outrage for them to be denied the opportunity for another two years merely to gratify the desire of three petty officials to hold on to their jobs.

PIKES PEAK A NATIONAL PARK

IN HIS talk at the Chamber of Commerce banquet Monday evening, Enos A. Mills of Estes Park congratulated the people of Colorado Springs on their determination to make the Pikes Peak Region a national park. He also advised them to start the campaign at once and get into full blast with Washington.

But to determine a thing is easy. The matter has been discussed for several years now, and the people of the Pikes Peak Region favor the movement almost without dissenting voice. It took Mr. Mills three years and hard fighting to get his project in order by the people and the press, and then considered by Congress. It will be easier for us, but not so easy that the matter can be dropped even for a short time.

It would be the best thing that could happen to Colorado Springs, this national park, not only as an ideal vacation ground, but as a sound financial investment. When the Government is back of a proposition the people are more ready to believe in it. The amount of publicity to be gained by this plan is enormous and this region needs all the publicity it can get. If the people do nothing the land will be grabbed for private use, but if the Government parks it the land will be improved and tourists will be attracted here by thousands.

When it is considered that Switzerland, with its area of 15,000 square miles, gets from $225,000,000 to $250,000,000 each year from tourists, the possibilities offered by the Rocky Mountain region are unbelievable. The scenery is beautiful, the roads are good and getting better year by year, the climate could hardly be improved upon.

What more? The area of Colorado is 103,925 square miles. Why should it not get the tourist patronage and the tourist money that Switzerland does?

It is time to start an agitation. If we have no nature lover like Mr. Mills, then it is up to the Chamber of Commerce to push the campaign, outline the boundaries of the proposed park, get in touch with Congressman H. H. Seldombridge, and through him have the Department of the Interior send a man here to look over the ground. The government is beginning to realize the value of national parks, and his report could not be other than favorable. Then it will be time to get the bill indorsed by people throughout the state, and finally brought before Congress. The people are ready to back the movement. Now is the time to begin.

THE BOY SCOUTS AGAIN

THE organization of boy scout patrols requires time and thought, few business men are able to give with a degree of thoroughness calculated to bring results. But in many university towns throughout the country college men have taken up the movement. It gives them an opportunity to study boys, which is the next thing to studying men, and they are practically the only ones who have sufficient time for the work. At this period of the year there are few college activities, and there are a number of men who could spare several hours a week to organize patrols in Colorado Springs. If the work is started now by summer time the boys will know the ropes and have efficient leaders among their own groups.

The value of such an organization cannot be overestimated. It means that boys, instead of loafing about the streets and parks, would be taken on regular trips into the mountains by young men of high standing and character. Instead of wasting their time in the evening they would attend scout meetings, where strong incentives for good work and kindly deeds are provided. The boys would learn something about their future duties as citizens of the United States. The organization could not help but prove a powerful factor in the boys' world.

The only thing needed to start the college men on this track is initiative. The work would give them something to do during the dull months, and they would have the added satisfaction of knowing that they were helping a worthy cause.

OPEN PARLIAMENT.
AND SO DO FABLES GROW!

To the Editor of The Gazette:
Who next, and how many men did it take to build the first capital of Colorado?

Within the memory of man more than half a thousand men have claimed that honor. I have been through Colorado a dozen times or more, stopping each time in Colorado Springs, and, having a peculiar interest in old buildings, have always asked the driver, conductor, or whoever was with me, to point the building you are passing by. And either through mistake, naivete or ignorance, a new site and a different building was shown me each time. It crossed the road as often as the old hen, and changed its coat of color as easily as a politician in harvest time. Adobe brick, boards and logs have all gone into its construction.

They were all wrong. It took just three men to build it. It has never crossed the street, and hardly ever changed its color. My father, his brother, the son, John, built the abode for a hunting lodge. You can find the record in the proper place. The son, Mr. Beach, has turned what he was in San Jose, California, February 24.

Within the memory of man more than half a thousand men have claimed that honor. I have been through Colorado a dozen times or more, stopping each time in Colorado Springs, and, having a peculiar interest in old buildings, have always asked the driver, conductor, or whoever was with me, to point the building you are passing by. And either through mistake, naivete or ignorance, a new site and a different building was shown me each time. ## Dutton Says This Will Be Biggest Year

Looks for Rush of Tourists Next Month

Between March 15 and November 1 more than 100,000 tourists will visit Colorado Springs and Denver in organized tour parties alone, according to Samuel Dutton, president of the Athens Hotel company in Denver, who is at the Antlers hotel for a short visit. Mr. Dutton predicts an enormous tourist business for Colorado in 1915 and said yesterday that the majority of people have no idea of the extent of travel this year.

Colorado Springs will get fully 10 per cent more of the organized travel than Denver, in Mr. Dutton's opinion. The right-wing agencies here have advertised their attractions and many of the special parties are routed here. The demand for Colorado literature

SCHOOL CENSUS SHOWS 7,300 NAMES TO DATE

Lists to Be Gathered Today by Children Expected to Add to Final Total

With a list of about 7,300 names of persons between the school ages of six and 21, living in district No. 11, the first part of the work of the school census takers was finished yesterday. This total is slightly under that obtained at the same time last year. The lists of the school children from all the city schools will be turned in to day and the work of checking the two lists will be started at once, in order that duplicates may be thrown out and new names found.

If in the work of comparing the two lists, names are found to be missing this year, which were registered in 1914, special dispatchers will be sent out to the addresses given, to find out what has happened to the missing persons. Quite a number of married women are found in this way, whose ages are not yet passed the school limit of 21.

The report will be ready for filing about March 1, and a month later copies will be ready for distribution.

Street Car Company Makes 1914 Report

A report covering the year 1914 was filed yesterday with the city council by the Colorado Springs and Interurban Railway company. The statement was the first to be filed by local public utility corporations this year and was referred to Mayor Charles L. McKeown. In giving out the statement the company denied the legal right of the city to demand it but expressed a willingness to comply with the request.

An interesting feature was the exhibition of the replica of the United States battleship New York, which is being taken to San Francisco exposition by the inventor. The miniature dreadnaught was placed on a billiard table and throughout the evening attracted many inquisitive spectators. The workings of the model were explained by the inventor.

The capital stock of the company is $1,000,000; and its bonded debt is the same. Interest paid on bonds last year amounted to $80,000. There were no dividends on common stock and preferred dividends for the last half of 1912 and all of 1913 and 1914 are due and unpaid.

The company now owns 1,597 poles, 8,249 feet of telephone wire, $20,000 feet of electric light and power wire, 65 passenger cars and 255,916 feet of steel and iron rails. The direct tax paid for 1914 was $34,388.28, while the pole and wire tax paid amounted to $322.44.

Owing to the fact that fares run through Colorado City, Manitou and outside of Colorado Springs, the company stated that it was unable to give the amount of fares collected in Colorado Springs during the year.

MILLS GIVES INTERESTING ADDRESS ON SOCIALISM

"We all seem to want to get along with as little government as possible, largely because the kind we have is unsatisfactory," said Walter T. Mills, lecturer, who addressed a meeting last night at Eagle Hall under the auspices of the Socialist of Colorado Springs. "We must have government. We have it in the most simple relationships of life, family, church and business. It is time we considered questions of democracy and industry. The people of Colorado, for instance, must be masters of their own coal mines, or Colorado will be mastered by the men who own them.

"Trade unionism is the attempt to manage the job without owning it; it is a laudable effort, but not highly successful. We have in this country a political democracy and an industrial despotism. Colorado's coal mines cannot be owned in New York and Colorado remain a self-governing state, properly speaking, because the industries of a community are fundamentally concerns of all the people. The way to get socialism is to begin with the commonly used utilities of the community and continue to state and nation."

Mills' definition of socialism was: "The collective ownership and management of all those industries or concerns which are cooperative in their nature, and no others. The socialist doesn't want more than he is willing to give. He wants even-handed justice."

El Paso Annual Promises Lively Session

Stockholders to Demand New Directorate

A statement to stockholders which may play a big part in the fight predicted at the annual meeting, March 2, for the control of the El Paso Consolidated Gold Mining company, was issued yesterday by K. MacDermid, a broker of this city. It says that a total of $142,447.40 of the company's money was used by Allen L. Burris and associates in their efforts to effect a merger of several Cripple Creek mining properties and in the organization of the Colorado Mine Railways and Utilities company, which was to have been the holding company. The statement, the figures of which are taken from the report of the McMahon Audit company of this city and Denver, showed that salaries amounting to $68,400 were paid in 1912-13. It is also claimed that insurance amounting to $88,000 on the company's shaft, which burned last fall, was used to liquidate a debt of $35,000, and to show an apparent surplus.

The statement declares that only 4,146 shares of El Paso stock were sold abroad after the company had been put on a new par basis, although the general idea was that foreigners had obtained the control of the company.

MacDermid said yesterday that a strong effort had been made by officials of the company in Denver to suppress the statement on the ground that Hurst was in Denver and would explain the books. MacDermid said that he had received many requests from stockholders relative to the operations of the company before the annual meeting. The letter follows:

MacDermid's Letter.

Colorado Springs, Colo., February 23, 1915.

To the Stockholders of The El Paso Consolidated Gold Mining Company: A few days ago a letter was mailed to you inclosing a copy of an audit made by the McMahon Audit company of Denver, showing the amount of El Paso company money spent by your directors on visionary schemes entirely outside and foreign to the purposes for which your company was organized. That letter was signed by myself and two responsible business men of Denver, Colo. We had to prepare the letter very hurriedly so that it would reach you in time to warn you of the unfortunate conditions before the stockholders' annual meeting to be held on March 5, 1915.

With the assistance of two of the directors, I was able to get several items from the books of the company, showing how the money was taken out of the treasury of your company, and by whom, and I have had them printed, at my own expense, and I am here, with inclosing them to you.

In order that you may understand how this extravagance started, I will have to go back to April 30, 1912. Prior to this time the banking house of Joseph Walker & Sons, of 29 Broad street, New York, and Mr. Allen L. Burris of Colorado Springs, Colo., entered into some kind of an agreement whereby Joseph Walker & Sons agreed to make a market for El Paso stock, just as Mr. Hurst and associates could in their holdings.

The first valuable consideration that Mr. Joseph Walker received was a present of 10,000 shares of El Paso stock. The books of the El Paso company show that a majority of the board of directors, by their votes, authorized the 10,000 shares to be purchased, and the audit shows that the El Paso company paid $13,700 for it. The highest market price that El Paso stock sold for during the month of April, 1912, was 82 cents a share. At that price the cost of the company should not have exceeded $8,000. Someone made $5,000 on the transaction. The El Paso company did not have any treasury stock for sale, yet this large amount of money was taken out of its treasury to make a market for the stock of certain individuals who were directors of that company. Fine business!

Selling Campaign Started.

Shortly after that, a selling campaign was started from Broad street, I think, that all of you who owned stock, at that time, or for some time thereafter, will remember that you received one or two letters from New York brokers telling you what a great mine the El Paso was, and of its great big bodies and what a safe purchase of stock in that company was for dividends. I received a great many postals, some in the envelopes of Joseph Walker & Sons. This circular-letter campaign lasted until the former large stockholders had no more stock left. There is not a share of stock now in the name of Allen L. Burris on the books of the company and the associates that served with him as directors, and stored in the safe, are very small stockholders, and they are now asking for your proxies to re-elect themselves, and to justify their illegal acts with your proxies, as they did at the last annual meeting.

Just as soon as they unloaded their El Paso holdings, something else had to be started with which to separate the unfortunate Wall street and other parts of the United States from their money.

A corporation was organized by the name of The Colorado Mine Railways & Utilities Corporation, a capital stock of $2,000,000. (Nothing small)

GIRLS LEAD THRILLING LIVES ON BATTLE LINE

English Nurse Writes of Experiences Under Fire and What Pleasures She Enjoys

LONDON, Feb. 24.—A letter received by an English family from a daughter serving as a Red Cross nurse in Flanders gives a thrilling glimpse of a girl's life on the Neuport-Dixmude line.

"We had a lively day of shelling on Monday," she writes. "At about 10:30, whiz-bang! just outside our house, and all our glass came shattering down. Whiz-bang! another and another, and yet another. Just then the Belgian doctor came in and told us we had better go into the cellar. We went down into the cold, damp cellar and stood about on bits of wood and coal, and listened to the continued whiz-bang and crash of big shells. The noise was pretty near deafening, and they must have pumped in about 100. Out of all that lot luckily we only got two wounded men—a priest, wounded by a flying bit in the face, and a soldier. It was extremely lucky that on that day the trenches opposite our house were not occupied or there would have been many killed and wounded."

Continuing her letter on the following day, the writer says: "The big cannonade is still going on. There must be a tremendous battle. I am hoping they are gaining ground, and that we shall soon move on down the road. I should just love to move forward into Brussels. The weather has been truly awful lately, nothing but rain. I live in knee-high rubber boots and my oil-skins. I am sure I will never be able to get back to bobble skirts and fashionable sides" as our American nurse says.

"We are thinking of going to Furnes for the afternoon, just for a joy ride. We have been hard at it for nearly a fortnight without a break, so we think of going in. You have no idea what a pleasure it is to ride in a motor-ambulance that has been in the best days and trundling over broken, holey roads that nearly jolt one's inside out; probably at least once, and perhaps more, sticking to the deep mud, and all having to get out and push and shove to get the car out, and eventually arriving at Furnes, and having a mad rush round the shop and grabbing all stores we can find, but it all seems so new and interesting after a desolate road."

Then a mad rush back again, over the same bumpy, holey road and home to our tumbled-down cottage. Yet you have no idea what a great treat it seems to us."

BRITISH ARMED MERCHANT CRUISER LOST IN STORM

280 Thought Lost With Vessel Clan MacNaughton; Not Heard From Since February 3.

LONDON, Feb. 24.—The official information bureau announced this afternoon that the British cruiser, "Clan MacNaughton," an armored merchant cruiser, has disappeared from the North Sea.

"Clan MacNaughton" was last heard of on Feb. 3, and it is feared that she has been lost. The text of the bureau's information follows:

"The secretary of the admiralty regrets to announce that H. M. S. Clan MacNaughton, an armored merchant cruiser, Commander Robert Jeffery, R. N., has been missing since Feb. 3, and it is feared that the vessel has been lost.

"An unsuccessful search has been made and wreckage supposed to be portions of this ship has since been discovered.

"The last signal received from the "Clan MacNaughton" was made in the early morning of Feb. 3, and it is feared that she was lost during the bad weather which prevailed at that time.

Among the crew of the "Clan MacNaughton" were 20 men of the Newfoundland Royal Naval Reserve. Twenty-two men were on board the vessel. The commanding officer and the principal officers belonged to the Royal navy, the others to the Royal Naval reserve.

A LESSON IN BEAUTY

Languorous Rest and Supreme Peace

Visitors to the San Francisco Exposition

Beauty Has Come Into Its Own in This Fairy-land Come True

By GEORGE RANDOLPH CHESTER AND LILLIAN CHESTER.

Dawn on the Golden Gate; dawn on the tumbling waves of the bay; dawn on the circling green hills. A pearl-pink mist lifts from the waves, and there slowly unveils a city which might have been transplanted from some vision of the Orient; a city of tinted towers and gilded minarets and rose domes, a city of waving palms and lofty pines and brightly nodding flowers; a city of majesty of dignity of beauty. A dominating tower marks the center, and, as the fiery rim of the sun rises above the hills, the tower bursts into dazzling radiance. Its countless jewels glittering and flaming, scintillating and flashing, rubies, emeralds, sapphires, diamonds, they blaze and glow, a queenly diadem for the most beautiful spectacle the world has ever seen; the Panama-Pacific International exposition!

An archer on a mighty column trains his arrow at the sun, symbol of the things that man will dare. Behind him lies achievement, and such achievement! There is color everywhere, soft, restful color. It begins in the vast entrance gate, with its palms and gay flowers, and leaping fountains. Above, the blue sky, curving downward, downward to meet, on the one side, the great green dome of the Palace of Horticulture, and, on the other, the dome of Festival Hall, where the huge organ swells and throbs. The background for this spacious panorama-glowing in its promise of the richness to come—is a long, high wall of smoked ivory, in the center of which is set the Tower of Jewels.

But, where are the buildings, the facades, the entrances to the Palaces of Agriculture, and Manufacture, and what not? Inside, facing upon courts of exquisite grace. You shall see those presently, but first you will stop to admire the consummate art of those smoked ivory walls, broken by their minarets and domes and shell-like niches of salmon pink, where sculptured surprises peer out at you from beneath drooping eucalyptus or curving palm or flaring orange trees. There is green everywhere, nature's green. It spreads against the panels of the walls in fanciful pattern, tall, spiraled pines and slender poplars rising from rich banks of shrubbery; it trails from the copings, long, garlanded vines or draping moss.

The Promise of Rest.

Rest; that is the promise you gain from this vast entrance garden, with its shaded promenades and its pastelled harmonies, where the minarets rear in soft opaques; blue and green and orange and red. Only the glittering gems on the Tower of Jewels, hang tremulously in the morning sunlight, beckon restlessly.

Straight through the high arch, or around through the circling colonnades by the Court of Palms. Color here too. Those gigantic red fluted columns, so thick and so high that they make pygmies of us all, stretch upward to ceilings of the azure blue which gives an infinity of space; and between the columns nod the delicate branches of green willows. If you come through the tower you emerge upon the magnificent Court of the Universe, its sunken garden a wild tangle of tropical vegetation.

Just ahead, across the gardens, silhouetted against the blue bay and steadfastly shooting at the sun, stands of the Palace of Manufactures and Varied Industries.

From the Bay.

At the end of this garden spot crosses an avenue of palms, leading down to the Esplanade and the shimmering bay. Across this avenue is the stupendous Palace of Machinery, and here again is the joy of smoked ivory walls, and shell-like salmon pink niches, and panels alighted by pines and palms and green shrubbery, and graceful, festooned trees swinging and swaying from the copings. Here again are royal tinted domes and warmly colored minarets which heighten the sky behind them in deep Italian blue.

Down beneath the palms to the Esplanade, where the cool invigorating breezes sweep in from the bay, and flocks of gray-breasted gulls wheel and circle in the acute air or cluster upon the green lawn. Again to the Court of the Universe, so that, entering past the daring archer on his mighty column, you shall see, through the great arch of the Tower of Jewels the streets of San Francisco rising steep and straight above their terraced hills. Surrounding the sunken garden, where the flying figure on the pedestal of light still stands poised for his flight of love, you walk beneath the arch of the Betting-gate, and enter the shaded rest again of flowered paths. To the right the Palace of Agriculture, to the left the Palace of Liberal Arts.

The Wonder of Sculptured Figures. Sculpture, there is sculpture everywhere, and notable sculpture. At the right of the sunken garden lies a pedestal of light, and on the opaque sphere which tops it is a flying figure of extraordinary grace. His wings outstretched, he stands poised on tip-toe, ready to cast himself off in flight, and his immensity of action is superb. One expects him, at any instant to take the air, and join his graceful mate on top of the pedestal to the left.

Surrounding the garden, and flanking the two main sets of steps which descend into the dense greenery, are four colossal, half recumbent statues—Fire, Air, Earth and Water—and the life-sized figures of humanity which are strapped to their wings, or strive to scale their gigantic bulk, are stupendously small by comparison—except for that vast ambition which spurs and sustains, and which placed the daring archer on his mighty shaft to shoot at the sun!

The portals to the right invite you. The lofty arch of the Rising Sun leads into pleasant paths; another garden! Here again are flowers and shrubs and green grass, and soft, harmonious coloring. If all garden and sculptured beauty, this exposition? Why no. These-columned facades which enclose the flower-bordered walks are the entrances to the exhibition buildings; the Palace of Transportation on the one hand, and the Palace of Manufactures and Varied Industries on the other.

Beyond, through spacious arcways, in the Court of Abundance, and now the whole atmosphere is changed. The round fullness of Byzantine has become the vertical sharpness of the Spanish-Moorish adaptation of gothic. The colors are still deeper, richer, more bold, and at the four corners of the splendid arcade, which surrounds this court, are mural panels as warm in coloring as stained glass. The big garden flaunts its exotic beauty with fervid flamboyance. Orange trees border this court, their yellow fruit ripe for the picking, and in the center is one of the most notable fountains of the globe, and there is a fountain of fine arts, in gaze and gaze, and find new wonders of light and shade and color and contrast through the shifting progress of the day. As the sun sets flames the sky, and softens and glorifies all these blended tints, there comes a different charm, fleeting, evanescent. The dusk settles down. Across the shining lagoon the arched and columns and the clustered shrubs stretch down with crystalline distinctness, and a fairy-like unreality is there, as if the whole figment were a vision soon to be swept away and vanished into thin air.

The Glory of Light.

Approaching darkness, and then upon the sky there comes and tremble, at first faintly, fan-like rays of violet and blue, and green, and orange, and rose. The Aurora Borealis! It glows and pulses, it shifts and changes, its glorious radiance fills the sky. It fills the universe! Look! A soft light steals upon the grounds. It has come so gradually that the transition has scarcely been noticed. Light! Floods of it, but never a glare! Every arc and incandescence is concealed by gay banners, or fantastic lanterns, or hal-luminous curtains, or ever the sky, over all the universe!

Beauty. It has come into its right, in the Panama-Pacific International exposition, and it dominates everything! One is tempted to forget that this exquisite harmonious panorama of structures, uses the very life of material progress, from every quarter of the globe, and here utility is holding its mightiest congress, but never utility and beauty joined hands in such sisterly-ness as this. San Francisco has tested that it is not necessary for utility to be ugly nor for beauty to be useless.

There are other beauties of form and color, of architectural and decoration of blended art and nature, but this is the crowning achievement of it all. The foreign buildings, and the state buildings, are each in its own characteristic style, a delight to the eye, but one returns again and again to the peaceful harmony of the Palace of Fine Arts, in gaze and gaze, and finds new wonders of light and shade and color and contrast through the shifting progress of the day. As the sun sets flames the sky, and softens and glorifies all these blended tints, there comes a different charm, fleeting, evanescent.

How to Have the Best Cough Medicine and Save $2 by Making It at Home

Cough medicine, as a rule contains a large quantity of plain syrup. A pint of granulated sugar with ½ pint of warm water, stirred for 2 minutes, gives you good syrup as money can buy.

Then get from your druggist 2½ ounces Pine, 50 cents worth, pour into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with sugar syrup. This gives you, at a cost of only 40 cents, a full pint of really better cough syrup than you could buy ready made for 40¢. Add a quart of milk $2. Five directions with Pine. It keeps perfectly and taste good.

It takes hold of the usual cough or cold at once and cures it in 24 hours. Splendid for whooping cough, bronchitis and winter coughs.

It's truly astonishing how quickly it relieves the dry, hacking or tight cough and heals and soothes the inflamed membranes in the case of a painful cough. It also cures the hoarseness, of phlegm in the throat and bronchial tube, thus ending the "white-lake" cough.

This is a highly concentrated and powerful medicine, and not in the trade of Adrian Beck, son, son of a distinguished Indian family. untrite or sculpture. There is a new color harmony now, the harmony of a new illumination. In the towers the columns stand out before patches of transparent reds and greens, the spandrels of the arches, paneled in milled squares, spring into roseate brilliance.

In the Court of the Four Seasons the fountained statues flow with plated waters; in the Court of the Universe the flying figures stand on columns of pulsing light, and the carvings around the sunken garden bear upon their heads great luminous pearls; the jewels in the crowns of the goddesses surmounting the cornice sparkle and snap; and, above all, the Tower of Jewels bears upon by a myriad of searchlights, blazes in all the iridescent colors of the spectrum, its rose-tinted columns and balustrades and turrets and casements hung with countless stars that twinkle and flash and glow and burn!

It is fairland made real, this vast place of the nations, and its marvel is that, with every detail of the ground and buildings and sculpture and shrubbery lighted with such distinctness, there is no glare, except that blaze upon the Tower of Jewels!

Where Beauty Has Come Into Its Own.

It is restful; it is dangerous. Even in this zone, the hilarious playground which stretches up beyond Machinery Hall, is below with quaint oriental lanterns. They are everywhere here, on tall standards, and in strings, and in rows; and, from the tips of bright-hued banners, bob, and sway, and sparkle like bubbles of liquid light. The fountains spray in drops of silver, or cast about them showers of glittering gems.

See the great dome of the Palace of Horticulture! On its dry, sun-baked surface there passes an endless, slowly changing, kaleidoscopic procession of bright-hued figures, rainbows, violets, moons, everything queer and fantastic. It is fascinating, but the one great fascination of all is that tremendous Aurora Borealis which infuses the Unlike rays of wavering fire over all the sky, over all the universe!

WHAT TWO AVIATORS SAW CHANGED LINE OF BATTLE

Incident in Dash on Paris Proves How Invaluable Aircraft Is to an Army

BERLIN, Feb. 24.—Details of an aeroplane scouting flight which made history have just become known, almost six months after it took place. The report of the two aviators making the flight turned General Von Kluck's column toward the south from its dash on Paris in August and changed the whole line of battle in the west.

A striking feature was that the course of the flight did not follow orders, but was determined upon the initiative of the flyers.

The story of the flight, taken from a German magazine devoted to aeronautics follows:

"It happened on the occasion of our dash on Paris. The inhabitants of the City of Eight had organized a daily visit from German aviators. The latter were accustomed to drop a couple of bombs every day but their visit here was not the object of their program. The chief thing was to keep watch of the movements of the Paris reserves. This army had marched up with its front toward the east and one aeroplane went up to observe again.

"The aviators were struck with the uncertain movements of the opponents of a German corps who appeared to be having a trifling conflict with troops further north. Upon their own responsibility the aviators changed their course and flew off to the north.

What they saw was well worth closer observation. Then they speeded back to headquarters and announced that a hostile army was marching upon Von Kluck's flank.

"Nobody would believe it at first."

Carabao patrols had brought no news to indicate such movement. But nevertheless, it was true. The report resulted in the known new disposition of the German position in the west and in the conferring of the Iron Cross of the first class upon the pilot and the officer-observer.

Dutch troops that the Germans will be forced over the frontier in Limburg.

Should the allied forces eventually push them out of Belgium, this little strip of the front line is bounded on the west by Belgium and on the east by Germany.

Martini records made no mention of the Rooperana, which presumably was a small coasting steamer. Rooperana is on the English channel in which German submarines have been particularly active since the naval war zone was established by Germany.
